

New Publisher: Barron's

TORONTO, May 13, 2019 - AdvisorStream is committed to providing the world's best content to power your digital client communications. We are excited to announce our newest partnership with Barron's.

Since 1921, investors have relied on Barron's as a trusted source for market ideas and insights to grow their portfolios and minimize their investment risks. With market summaries, industry news, detailed reports and outlooks on the week to come, Barron's is committed to providing investors with the smartest investment knowledge. Now, AdvisorStream clients have access to Barron's premium content at no additional cost.

We are excited to include another of the world's most credible publishers to our marketing platform as we continue to source the most engaging business and investment focused national and international daily news from Barron's. Our continued goal is to help financial advisors enhance their digital marketing capabilities and deepen client and prospect relationships by delivering the highest quality content.

With Barron's now available within AdvisorStream we continue the evolution of our platform, offering full licensed content from world-leading publications to help you deliver the most powerful newsletters, social media and website posts to your clients. New articles from Barron's will be available daily within the AdvisorStream library.